3. Main Features

Feature	Description
Navigation bar	Contains the ShopEasy logo, Home, Categories, Products, Offers, search field, and Cart link.
Promotional banner	Highlights the Big Shopping Festival, special prices, discount messaging, and Shop Now link.
Product categories	Shows Electronics, Fashion, Accessories, and Lifestyle.
Featured products	Displays a smartphone, laptop, headphones, and smart watch with descriptions, ratings, prices, and dis
Add to Cart buttons	Displays buttons on product cards as part of the webpage interface.
Special offer section	Promotes student offers and provides an Explore Deals link.
Responsive layout	CSS media queries adjust product cards and navigation for tablet and mobile screen sizes.

4. HTML and CSS Summary

HTML defines the navigation bar, promotional banner, product categories, product cards, special offer section, and footer. CSS controls the color palette, layout, product grid, hover effects, spacing, pricing styles, and responsive behavior.

Navigation links use section IDs such as #home, #categories, #products, and #offers to move to matching parts of the page.

5. Limitations

This is a front-end demonstration. The search field does not perform actual product searches, the Cart link only navigates to the products section, and cart items are not stored in a real shopping cart. There is no database, user login, payment gateway, order processing, or backend. Product details and prices are static sample values in the source code.

6. Conclusion

ShopEasy is a beginner-friendly online shopping webpage that demonstrates core HTML and CSS concepts. It presents product categories, discounts, ratings, prices, and responsive product cards. Backend services and real cart, search, and checkout functionality could be added in a future version.
